

Contribution Splitting Form

Please note forms claiming a tax deduction for contributions by self-employed members must be lodged with the Trustee prior to the lodging of this Contribution Splitting form. The law prohibits the Trustee from accepting a notice for a claim for a tax deduction for contributions by a self-employed member where a Contribution Splitting form has already been lodged in relation to the contributions.

Section 7: Important information

Under the Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993, your superannuation fund is authorised to collect your TFN, which will only be used for lawful purposes.

These purposes may change in the future as a result of legislative change. The trustee of your superannuation fund may disclose your TFN to another superannuation provider, where your benefits are being transferred, unless you request the trustee of your superannuation fund in writing that your TFN not be disclosed to any other superannuation provider.

Contribution Splitting Form

It is not an offence not to quote your TFN. However giving your TFN to your superannuation fund will have the following advantages (which may not otherwise apply):

- Your superannuation fund will be able to accept all types of contributions to your account/s;
- The tax on contributions to your superannuation account/s will not increase;
- Other than the tax that may ordinarily apply, no additional tax will be deducted when you start drawing your superannuation benefits; and
- It will make it much easier to trace different superannuation accounts in your name so that you receive all your superannuation benefits when you retire.
- “Retirement” means where you are less than 60 years of age an employment arrangement you are in comes to an end and you do intend to work full time or part-time again or if you 60 years or older your employment arrangement simply comes to an end.
